

Pilbara Death Adder Poster

The Pilbara Death Adder (Acanthophis wellsi) was described to science in a Victorian herp keeper's magazine in 1998. Typically of this complex of adder-like Australian snakes, all members are stout-bodied, venomous ambush hunters of vertebrates that are attracted in close by modified tail lure.

